READ AND CHECK

① Read the report below and check your answers to questions C, D and E on the previous page.

THE TIMES

SATURDAY, SEPTEMBER 13th, 2004

This report presents details about computer use by a sample group of 60 young people. Everybody thinks that teenagers today know about computers and are familiar with using them. I decided to do a survey to find out if this was true. §1

I questioned sixty young people between 13 and 19 in order to know what they use the computer for. When I asked how many of them had computers, all the teenagers I chose said they had one at home. I asked them how much time they spent on their computer in a week, but my main interest in fact was in what they used their computers for. §2

All the people questioned said that they regularly used the computer to play games. Twenty-eight told me they did some word-processing at home, but not very much. Only 4 of the informants said that their computers helped them with their studies, while 16 of them told me they kept addresses and telephone numbers on their computers - or used them as diaries. Two of them said that they used them as calculators. When asked if they used computers to learn to programme them, only 6 people said they did. The graph gives the overall findings in detail. §3

HOW TO PRONOUNCE WORDS ENDING IN S

Pronunciation of S AT THE END OF WORDS

PRONUNCIATION OF FINAL S IN ENGLISH

/ɪz/ SIBILANT

- C races
- S buses
- X boxes
- Z prizes
- SS kisses
- CH watches
- SH dishes
- GE changes

/s/ VOICELESS

- P sleeps
- K books
- T hats
- F cliffs
- GH laughs
- PH graphs

/z/ VOICED

- B crabs
- D words
- G bags
- L falls
- M dreams
- N fans
- NG sings
- R wears
- V gloves

There are 3 ways of pronouncing S at the end of a word in English. The pronunciation of words ending in S depends on the final consonant sound.

/ɪz/ Sometimes written as /əz/

Words that end in a vowel sound use the /z/ pronunciation for S. e.g. -- plays -- sees -- tries -- follows -- continues

- Sibilant Sound - = a hissing or buzzing sound.

- Voiceless Sound - = the vocal cords do not vibrate.

- Voiced Sound - = uses the vocal cords and they produce a vibration or humming sound in the throat.

Australians are the happiest people in the world. This is according to a new survey. Interviewers asked 30,000 people in 30 different countries about their levels of happiness. Forty-six percent of Australians said they were "very happy". Following them was the USA (40 percent), Egypt (36 percent), India (34 percent) and the UK and Canada (32 percent). Hungary finished top of the "miserable" list. Thirty-five percent of its citizens said they were "very unhappy". Second most miserable were Russians, at 30 percent.

The research showed that money and age affected how happy people are. The study did not show that money can buy happiness, but it revealed a link between a lack of money and unhappiness. Unhappier people were in lower income groups or unemployed. The study also suggested the older we become, the less happy we are. Globally, teenagers are the happiest people. The least happy age group is 50/59 ; only 16 percent of those in their fifties said they were very happy.

To conclude, we can confirm that the things that make us happy include good health, financial security and a happy marriage, not cars and clothes.

It is alarming that the teen stress experience is so similar to that of adults,” said Norman B. Anderson, the American Psychological Association’s chief executive. “In order to break this cycle of stress and unhealthy behaviors as a nation, we need to provide teens with better support and health education, at school and at home, at the community level and in their interactions with health care professionals.”

This fact doesn’t surprise the experts who work with teens. They say that the main causes are: pressures of schoolwork, social life, sports or other activities — combined with a relentless media culture —because of that young people become tenser than ever before.

The American Psychological Association’s survey found that 16 % of teens reported feeling sad or depressed because of stress and 30% felt overwhelmed. Another 33 % said that stress makes them tired and 21% said they’ve skipped meals because of it.

Stress seems to be getting worse for some teens, according to the survey. About 21% of kids said that their stress level had increased in the past year, twice as many as those who said that it went down. And 37 % said that they expected their stress level would rise in the coming year.

A new national survey from the Pew Internet & American Life Project illustrates how electronic games have become in youth culture. The survey, released Tuesday, combined the telephone responses from a sample of 1,102 young people, aged between 12-17, and their parents.

When the young people were asked whether they played video games, 97% of them said that they did (that is 99% of boys and 94% of girls). In fact, 7% of those surveyed said that they didn't have a computer at home, but they had a game console, such as Sony's PlayStation, Microsoft's Xbox or Nintendo's Wii. When they were questioned about the games they liked to play, 80% of the respondents replied that they played five or more different game genres like racing, puzzles, sports and action games. The favourite games were Guitar Hero, Halo 3, Madden NFL, solitaire and Dance Dance Revolution.

Interestingly, about a third (1/3) of the parents who were surveyed said that they played video games with their children some or all of the time. Most of those parents were younger than 40, part of a generation that had grown up playing video games themselves.

As expected, the survey found that, while young Americans did not necessarily play the same thing, nearly all of them — girls included — played video games of one kind or another.
