Article about "the major causes behind the spread of corruption"

Corruption refers to the illegal acts that harm both society and individuals, however it has been recently a widespread phenomenon and this refer to a number of factors.

Firstly, Poverty and a lack of economic freedom are thought to be major factors in the spread of this phenomenon because when people struggle to meet their basic needs, they flip to illegitimate activities to make a quick profit. Secondly, lack of transparency and control by supervisory institutions also contribute to this spread, because it encourages people to commit illegal practices in order to enhance their wealth and power.

To summarize, eliminating this phenomenon is not only the responsibility of the government, but it is something we must all be concerned about if we want to live in a free-corruption society.

The consequences of the illegal acts or corruption

Corruption is defined as the use of public office for personal gain; however, such practices hurt both individuals and society.

To begin with, it results in a loss of equality and transparency, which weakens the legitimacy of the state. Additionally, corruption increases transaction costs and creates insecurity in the economy; as a result, it gives a bad reputation to the country. Finally, it also kills creativity and innovation, which has an impact on companies' productivity.

To summarize, eliminating this phenomenon is not only the responsibility of the government, but it is something we must all be concerned about if we want to live in a free-corruption society.
